Council holds special meeting on expense accounts, salaries

by Cheryl Cohen

Lemon Grove City Councilman Craig Lake has wanted to talk about council money matters since 1996, and he finally got his way this week.

Lake has been concerned about the legality of certain expense reimbursement practices as they are currently handled within the city, and doesn't think that the mayor should make any more money than council members.

He contends that the reimbursements for mileage and for spousal expenses to attend functions are actually gifts of public funds.

As policy now stands, council is not required to turn in any receipts for mileage, although there is documentation required for other expense reimbursements.

At a special meeting held regarding council policies on Tuesday, City Attorney Gloria McLean began by saying when deciding if an expense serves the public interest, they might question the public benefit of even attending the functions themselves, let alone with their spouses.

There is also the question of whether or not the public cares how council uses the funds already allocated in the budget for expenses relating to city business.

In the past, there have been some instances regarding council members exceeding their own expense allocations, having to borrow from other council members who had dollars left in their account.

Lake said that he had to invoke this practice two or three times in the last few years in order to attend meetings in Washington and elsewhere that were required by his appointment to a Finance Administration and Intergovernmental Relations committee.

These meetings were not financed by the California League of Cities, the host agency. The Lemon Grove City Council voted, sometimes unanimously, to approve overage reimbursement for his trips each time Lake requested.

Even so, Councilman Tom Clabby took umbrage with this practice.

"I don't think it's appropriate," said Clabby, referring to Lake's past borrowing needs. "I think we should all be prudent."

Lake shot back that the body had voted to approve the loan from another council member's expense account and that afterward, Clabby slandered him in the paper.

Lake was referring to a letter to the editor written by Clabby in the March 7, 1996 issue of the Lemon Grove Review. In the letter, Clabby said Lake "consistently overspent his taxpayer- furnished travel budget."

Mayor Mary Sessom politely asked the two council members to "take it outside."

The council directed staff to work towards a draft resolution which would merge the "mileage" and "travel and meetings" accounts, which now hold annual amounts of $1,825 and $1,200, respectively, for council members, and $1,200 for mileage and $2,700 travel and meetings for the mayor.

Tentatively, the idea is for council members to sign a form stating how many miles they want reimbursed for city-related travel, to fulfill the mileage documentation legal requirements. The amount of reimbursement per mile will be decided upon at a later council meeting, but the total per year can not exceed the combined totals of the two accounts.

Council will continue to document travel and meeting expenses as before, and they may bring guests to events as long as they are reimbursed from the balances in their expense accounts.

Council members and the mayor in Lemon Grove now make $360 per month. Sessom said that although they can never be reimbursed totally for their efforts, they could mitigate some of the financial sacrifices of future council members by raising the salaries they receive.

"If we want to bring new people into this process, we have to make it less of a financial hardship," she said.

Lake says that salaries are fine as they are, and that the benefits offered to council are extensive. He does not personally accept any of the benefits or reimbursement for expenses incurred by his wife at events, saying it was expensive to the city, but later also admitted that he felt it was politically wise not to take the benefits.

Getting right to the crux of the matter, Councilman Dwight Shelley pointed out that there was always the possibility of someone declining to take any reimbursement or raises at all, as a political ploy. He added that he thought it would be good to bring before the public at a meeting, to see if they "thought we deserve a raise."

If council agrees to boost salaries, it won't be for the current council. According to City Clerk Christine Taub, salaries, which legally could be raised by as much 40 percent to $504, wouldn't take effect until at least July of 2000.

LEMON GROVE ON THE WEB

BY CHERYL COHEN

Lemon Grove may seem like a sleepy little town, but its schools, government, residents and businesses need no wake-up call when it comes to the Internet - they've already arrived.

From the "World Guide to Vegetarianism," a site for the Optimum Health Institute to the Broadway Texaco homepage, it's clear that the Internet is not too huge a place for small-town businesses to strut their stuff.

LemonLINK, Lemon Grove School District's interactive site, is largely a result of a three-year Technology Implementation Challenge Grant funded by the office of Educational Research and Evaluation at the U.S. Department of Education.

In partnership with Microsoft Corporation, Cox Communications, Leemah Datacom, San Diego County Office of Education, Grossmont Community College and Grossmont Union HS District Adult Education Program, LemonLINK extends classroom learning experiences into not just the community, but into their homes, as well.

Parents can take an active role in their children's education by accessing LemonAids, which are Web-based learning guides on the LemonLINK site. They can communicate with teachers via E-mail, access information regarding student services, and also use the network to beef up their own software expertise with interactive tutorials for programs such as Microsoft Word or Excel.

The new collaboration between the city of Lemon Grove and the school district has created a network of equipment which can be shared. Students have designed pages for leaders, city staff, council, the recreation department and senior center.

Mesa Valley Grove, the nonprofit corporation which runs various programs at the Lemon Grove Senior Center, has plans in the works now to start using the city's network. This project will provide the center with terminals available for hands-on computer training for seniors.

The city itself has embarked on its own system, which is presently unfinished. When complete, it will have a Web site which will be interactive. Citizens will be able to read and download City Council agendas, minutes, apply for permits and get general information.

E-mail address for city staff and council members are set up, but there has been limited success by council members in accessing their mail from computers other than inside the city offices.

The addresses use the first letter of the first name, followed by up to six letters of the last name, such as ctaub@ci.lemon-grove.ca.us. Citizens can now e-mail their council members and city staff with complaints, problems or even accolades. Soon, council members may even figure out how to retrieve it.

Lemon Grove City Councilman Craig Lake has an edge over most other government officials with his Web site, provided by Prudential California Realty, the company through which he conducts his real estate business. You can read Lake's extensive resume covering a few of his accomplishments, which actually total 26 items from "Apple Days Committee" to "Pastor at the Church at Campland on the Bay."

One of the more attractive and functional Lemon Grove sites on the Internet belongs to Lemon Grove Christian Church. You can meet the ministers, check out the current sermon series and classes offered, and even see if the church is right for you in the first place.

Some businesses, such as Texaco and the Broadway Antique Mall, have simple homepages through a business service directory. Other businesses have obviously spent some serious money to have sophisticated sites made. Such is the one for Little Darlings, which has location maps, calendars and more.

Large commercial sites, such as sandiego.sidewalk.com, have search capabilities which will lead you to some restaurants and businesses in Lemon Grove. However, sometimes, the reviews can get pretty brutal. Under the "Best (and absolute worst) Dive Bars" section of sandiego.sidewalk, the write-up on Lemon Grove's Pelican Pub notes it is the place to go if you like "cheap beer and really cheap women".

Their review on Lido's Italian Foods ended a little better, but not before a cruel beginning. (Why would anyone knock an hors d'oeuvre made of Cheez-its with American cheese slices?)

All in all, the large sites ignore San Diego's East County, in favor of locations such as La Jolla or even Oceanside. But anyone who thinks that Lemonites aren't hip to the technology, should spend a few minutes with any school board member, or check out sites like the one designed for Deering Banjo before casting their aspersions.

One thing is for certain in the ethereal world of the Internet: Nobody in Lemon Grove has been using their mousepad for a pillow.

Personal comments of Mayor Mary Sessom

A residents who turned 'Lemons to Lemonade'

I attempt to fill this column with information about our city and "goings on" in it. Budgets, streets, parks, regional issues all find their way into your homes through this paper. Infrequently, do I write about our Lemon Grove residents and businesses who make this city special. It is time to correct that situation. However, rather than just showcase some individual's contributions, I wanted to put a twist to it (and I don't mean a "Lemon Twist"). I call this twist "Lemons to Lemonade." This will give us an opportunity to give Kudos to those among us who have experienced something negative ("Lemons") and turned it into some positive ("Lemonade").

This city is home to a wonderful woman named Maria Camacho Hayworth. Maria, a native of Mexico, raised her many children here in Lemon Grove. At the age of 55, she decided it was time to tackle a negative situation in her life – illiteracy. Maria enrolled in the Adult Literacy Program at the Lemon Grove Library. For the next two years she worked under the tutelage of Dorothy Grinsell Scott. Ms. Scott asked Maria, during one of their sessions in 1982, to write something. The result was a beautiful poem that showed Maria's innate eloquence and poetic sensibility.

The next time you are at the Lemon Grove Library, look for Maria's poem hanging prominently on the wall. If you can't make it to the library, I'll share it with you here.

"Library"
This is a library for me
These books are alive
They talk in silence
Books live over and over
Each time you and I have one
In our hands

Our hats are off to Maria for turning lemons into lemonade. If you have a story you would be willing to share in the future, drop me a line at City Hall or call (464-6934).

City council meetings are the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of the month at 6 p.m. in the Community Center, 3146 School Ln.

Lemon Twist

by Cheryl Cohen

My first order of business in the column today, is an apology. A few weeks back, when I was clowning about Dorothy Grinsell Scott reading from the diary of her great, great grandmother and her oxen-powered trek across the plains with her Civil War veteran husband, I did it without reading (or even comprehending) the Historical Society's press release carefully. I characterized her great, great grandfather as an "ex-con from Anderson Prison" who made a pit stop at Dirk's Horseshoe Lounge. In truth, the man was a prisoner of war from Andersonville Prison. Okay, he didn't stop at Dirk's, either. So much for poetic license. I'm sorry, Dorothy. And if I ever run into your ancestors in person, I'll apologize to them, too.

Meantime, I'll consider the advice of many who have suggested I enroll in Journalism Reform School — but I always freeze during testing and may not qualify to get in.

That being said, it's probably time for some prayer. I've managed to wheedle out of actually attending the Lemon Grove Prayer Breakfast tomorrow, and pressed Steve Saint to cover it instead. (There's something wickedly fun about picturing him at a breakfast event which starts at 7 a.m.) However, I'm sending along my own list of prayers for him to bring in my place. I don't think there's any rules about revealing the content of prayers to others — they're not the same kind of sacrosanct as making your birthday wish before blowing out your candles, or anything, so I'll share a couple of them with you. Here's some of the kinds of things I would pray for, if I were there:

- That readers would stop mistaking my cowlicks for horns.
- That I could have had a photograph of Jeff Jandura's expression when he realized that he'd forgotten to sign his own campaign petition.
- I'd pray that during particularly long council meetings, Christine Taub would share with the audience, the snacks that she and Douggie are pigging out on from the dais.
- That I could share with you, one fraction of the information I've received about Jill Greer.
- One measly Pulitzer.

Okay, okay. I'll add "solving world hunger and poverty" to the list, just for the sake of those who will write in to say how shallow I am.

Wear your own horns and attend the Scholarship Fund Raiser and Halloween Celebration in honor of Deputy Randy Visconti of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station from 3 - 8 p.m. this Sunday at the Lemon Grove Senior Center. Cost is only $5 for adults, and $3 for children ages 2 - 12. The fun includes a spaghetti dinner and games, and is touted as a great place to "test-drive" your children's Halloween costumes. Contact Sgt. Frailey or Jill Darer for advance ticket purchases at 441-4062.

Did you know there's a real live hero in our midst? Tomorrow, the San Diego Crime Commission will honor, among others, Lemon Grove resident and Border Patrol Agent David Lane for "exceptional heroism". Lane, with two other agents, rescued a pregnant motorist, her eight-year old son and an adult friend from their vehicle when they became trapped inside during a flash flood in rural San Diego during heavy rains caused by El Niño. The three agents made a human chain to extract the victims, because they had no rope, thereby averting a serious injury and possible death. Next time, David, stop by the office where I usually keep just enough rope to hang myself within the column (as evidenced by the first paragraph).

If you have a press release you want butchered, give it to the Review or send it directly to me at 619-264-3153 (msg.), 264-4180 (fax), or you can E-mail it to me at cirious@cts.com. 'Til next week, pray for me – but please don't write in about it.

Line dancing will be held from 1:30 - 2:30 p.m., beginning Sept. 30, and ballroom dancing will be from 12:30 - 1:30 p.m., beginning Oct. 2. Both classes continue for 10 weeks, at the Lemon Grove Senior Center at 8235 Mt. Vernon St., in Lemon Grove. The cost is $30 per person, payable on the first day of class.

Commentary

by Bob Burns

This is probably one of those pieces that I should write, edit, rewrite and then discard. Max Goodwin gave me that advice a long time ago, and I have followed it often, but not always. You all know how I feel about the legalization of abortion and the effects that it has on society. Recent events that have consumed the media have prompted me to go out on another limb. So, this fool is hereby rushing in to talk about truth.

It has always been my intent and desire to be truthful and to protect my integrity by being true to my word. I would hope that those who know me will verify that I have accomplished that pledge.

I have been known to exaggerate compliments to the opposite sex at times, and some could be dangerously bordering on an actual lie. However, I prefer to call it flattery that only intends to make a person feel good, and do not believe it harmful. Or you might call it Blarney, and yes, I have kissed the Blarney stone.

But seriously, it is ever more present that truth in our day depends largely upon the subject of the statement. We are being told now that truth and honesty is only really relevant if it involves world shaking proclamations.

Lying is now perceived as okay if it involves personal things that are really no one else's business. Lying, to make a point, to sell a product, to protect a persons feelings, or even to get oneself elected to office. Or, I might add to stay in office. Apparently lawyers do it all the time in representing their clients, and with complete impunity.

Now the subject of perjury is being tarnished with an erosion of interpretation. Lying under oath is perjury according to our laws. Many people are in prison today because of being convicted of the crime of perjury. But now we have a contention that unless the lie is about "important" things, it is not of a real criminal nature. Lying about sex, or background, or other personal things, even under oath, is not culpable. We have the head of our nation who has proven to be a consummate liar, and it is being widely excused. I guess that I have to say I really expected that those of high office might have perks that are denied us common folks. But I cannot believe that anyone is above the law.

It seems to me that this all is going to educate our youth, the future leaders of our nation, that lying is acceptable practice. That lying about little things, will in no way cast doubt on other statements in other contexts.

Personally, if a person lies to me, I cannot fully believe anything else said. Is this a message that we want to become axiomatic in our future? We almost feel now that it is mandated that politicians lie thropugh their teeth for personal gain. I do not believe that they all do. Political campaigns are replete with half-truths and actual false representations and claims.

Are we now going to sanction this practice by saying that the highest official in our land can do it without accountability?

I guess that at my age, I was appalled that we would ever put a draft dodger in the Whitehouse. I have come to being able to cope with that. However, is being a liar now to become so common place, and so accepted as standard operating procedure, that the truth has little or no meaning? What will our society be like when no one can believe anything said by his fellow man? Responsibility and accountability will become obsolete words, and we will reap the harvest of mistrust and suspicion that will be universal in our world.

God protect us from this path we are taking ... Truth is basic in all of Your commandments, and without it we are doomed.

'Rounders' stacks deck against reason

by Betty Jo Tucker

Matt Damon and Edward Norton star in John Dahl's "Rounders".

Mommas, don't let your babies grow up to be gamblers — even if they're good at it. "Rounders," Miramax's depressing drama about high stakes poker, shows why.

Current heartthrob Matt Damon ("Good Will Hunting") plays a young law student whose addiction to poker could cause him the loss of his beautiful girl friend (Gretchen Moll) as well as his future in the legal field.

Struggling to stay away from underground games after a major defeat, Damon's character is drawn back in by Worm (Edward Norton), his outrageous best friend. Worm needs help in paying gambling debts, so he turns to Damon, a budding poker genius. Because of Worm's destructive behavior, nothing goes right for this card-playing duo.

Watching the appealing Damon finally prevail in spite of such overwhelming odds gives the audience a fleeting sense of satisfaction. Fleeting, because upon reflection, the story seems quite unbelievable. For example, Damon receives a large amount of money to finance his last big poker game from a most improbable source, a professor he severely disappointed in an earlier scene. In addition, Damon puts up with his worst nightmare of a buddy way beyond the bounds of rationality.

And what is the film's message? Something about following your dream and paying attention to your passion and talent, no matter what the cost. Many career counselors will question such unsophisticated advice.

That said, there is still one very good reason to see "Rounders" — Norton's fascinating portrayal of a manipulative ex-con without an ounce of self-control. Although his edgy mannerisms may make viewers nervous, Norton is a potential Oscar-winner in action here. This scene-stealing performance proves his Oscar nomination for "Primal Fear" was no fluke.

In all fairness, avid poker players might enjoy this movie. No doubt they would understand terminology that comes across like a foreign language to others. They might also appreciate the slow-moving card game sequences.

However, putting all my cards on the table, I found "Rounders" too dark and violent, with too little humor to balance out its heavy drama.

But, hey! I did learn how much more fun playing poker can be than sitting through a movie about it.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter.

PG Perspectives

Falling back

by Phillip Giannangeli

Jerry Lewis has come and gone. The kids are back in school. Even the first displays for Halloween are beginning to show up. All of this can mean only one thing: summer's over. Fall will soon be knocking at the door trying to get our attention. I think it's going to be a loud knock. What a fall this could turn out to be.

First we have the fall elections happening. They will take place in early November. From who will sit in the governor's chair to who will be on a local fire board, the ballot is going to be a very long one. There will also be propositions and initiatives to vote on: ball park funding, Indian gaming, school financing and a whole lot of stuff in between. The election this year is going to be a real challenge for the voters. And many of the campaigns are now in full swing and the voters are already being asked to decode all sorts of messages. It's a dirty job, but someone has to do it. That someone, dear reader, ought to be you and me.

The whole Clinton-Starr-Congress debacle will no doubt continue into and beyond the fall. It doesn't look like there's any sign of a let up. The American public is going to be given a plate so full of Clinton ala Lewinsky that each of us will have to decide how many portions we can stomach. Our waiters, the national media and the Congress, will continue to bring us more and more — tasty or not; ordered or not—and we'll have to figure out how to deal with it. Can't just move the stuff around the plate or try to hide it under a helping of international side dishes anymore. No, eventually we'll have to tell our servers to either bring on the final dish (dessert?) or stop and clear the whole table off. Busy, busy fall.

This fall also brings with it the possibility of a visit from the lovely Miss Niña, known to her close friends as La Niña. We had to put up with that ill-mannered brother of hers, El Niño, last year and now it seems we may have to indulge his sister too. I've heard she can be as troublesome a guest as her brother was last year. What is it with the Niño family? Have they got it in for the rest of us?

A perennial hazard of fall, this or any other year, is the tango we do with our clocks. One step back, wait six months, and then one step forward. We seem to be stuck with it. And there doesn't appear to be any force on earth able to eliminate this foolishness. Fall back; spring ahead. Find the culprit; kick his butt.

Finally, this fall we will be facing the last unfrenzied fall before next year's millennium madness. This fall may be less hectic, but it's not going to be stress free. We'll be busy trying to find fixes for the computer crashes, monetary chaos, and general havoc that are supposed to occur at the turning of the millennium. I don't think this fall will rival the one of 1999, but don't plan on relaxing too much.

Summer's over. Get used to it. There's no more time for that laid-back summer posture we enjoyed the last three months or so. Now there are people to do, things to go, and something is supposed to happen with places. I can never get it straight. What I do have straight, though, is that fall is a knockin' and somebody should answer.

Great minds think alike

I'm just writing to compliment you on the excellent restaurant review about Al Amir that appeared in your paper ["Search for great falafel ends at Al Amir," Aug. 27 issue]. Steven Saint knows how to write a review and he was right on: the place is delicious. Keep up the good work!

Enough demeaning Clinton

It was a mistake to release the president's videotaped Grand Jury testimony. Many Americans, upon reading the Starr report over the weekend, said they felt dirty after doing so. Now, the videotape is so graphic that the harm done to American youth and adults with spiritual sensitivity will be devastating. Let there be no doubt about that.

On "Good Morning America" Sept. 18, one guest wanted to know if there was anything that could be done to stop the release of these tapes. That concern was genuine and came from the heart. Seventy percent of those polled objected to the release of these tapes. Doesn't democracy imply the rule of the people by the majority? Political advantage is not the rule to be applied here.

On "60 Minutes" last Sunday evening, Andy Rooney took it upon himself to broadcast details about the president's family, his mother's five marriages, which were the nadir of bad taste and insensitivity. This demeaning of the office of the presidency has to stop.

About that Zipper Watch

Yes, it's unfortunate and a sin, but not in France. So who among you can CAST THE FIRST STONE? And when do these women apologize? Interns hope to become Residents.

Unable to get "thru" on your 1-800-ZIPPER? It was missing a digit. So, 1-800-A-ZIPPER was busy. The "Intern-ette" was down. So, here's a recipe for stuck zippers using lip balm to get it all started (from Family Circle): "To get a stuck zipper moving again, try dabbing a bit of lip balm onto the teeth, then work the zipper up and down until it moves."

Grossmont College introduces new faculty

Grossmont College has appointed 16 new faculty members with a wide variety of qualifications and backgrounds.

After months of interviewing to find the right candidates, interim President Dr. Jack Randall, presented the new faculty to the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College Governing Board during the Sept. 1 meeting.

Four of the faculty began spring semester and 12 started this fall.

The Governing Board welcomed the following faculty: Susan Callahan, mathematics; Jeffrey Veal, astronomy; Rick Trestrail and Dough Weber, physical education; Barbara Chernofsky, child development; Diane Mayne-Stafford, computer science information systems; Marilyn Estep, English; Beth Mallette-Anderson, theater arts; Marion de Koning, art history; David Mullen, dance; Israel Cardona, sociology; Susan Gonda, history; Lilia Vidal, Spanish; Carlos Contreras, Latin American history; Jeffrey Prock, Learning Resource Center; Gopa Patnaik, counseling.

"We're pleased to welcome our new faculty who bring to the college a range of experience in their respective fields," said Randall. "This is a great group and their enthusiasm is an asset to the Grossmont family."

Susan Callahan received her master's degree in mathematics from the University of Illinois at Urbana. Callahan has been an adjunct instructor at Grossmont for the last two semesters. In addition, she has taught at Southwestern College and at Austin Community College.

Rick Trestrail, who earned his master's degree from National University, is the assistant athletic director and softball coach. Since April, 1997, Trestrail was the interim women's softball coach and physical education instructor. He has taught physical education and coached for 26 years and was named "Coach of the Year" eight times.

Doug Weber will teach physical education and coach men's basketball. He has a master's from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and has taught and coached basketball since 1989.

Dr. Jeffrey Veal, who recently completed his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois at Urbana, will teach astronomy as a one-semester sabbatical replacement.

Barbara Chernofsky, an adjunct instructor in Child Development since 1989, will teach and serve as the Child Development Resources and Referral Specialist for the CalWORKS program. She earned her master's degree from SDSU.

Diane Mayne-Stafford brings her experience teaching the breadth of computer courses such as Pascal, Fortran, Cobol and others to Grossmont College's Computer Science and Information Systems department. She earned her master's from University of Redlands and has presented seminars there on Web use and Web programs.

Dr. Marilyn Estep will teach English. Her experience as a technical writer and editor brings additional assets to her students. She earned three degrees, bachelor's, master's and doctorate from the University of Akron.

Beth Mallette-Anderson will teach costume design. Her specialty area is in costume construction, history and vintage costuming. She earned her master's from the University of Missouri in Kansas City and previously taught at several colleges in Sacramento.

Marion de Koning, who teaches art history, is a graduate of Teacher's College in Tiburg, the Netherlands, and SDSU.

David Mullen teaches dance with a jazz emphasis. He earned his master's from the University of North Carolina.

Israel Cardona brings to his sociology courses experience teaching in the hispanic community in New York State. His specialty has been a course called "Cultural Diversity in America." He has his master's from Fordham University where he is a doctoral candidate.

Dr. Susan Gonda will teach history. She's been teaching one year at Grossmont and has taught at SDSU and UCLA. She has her master's and doctorate in American history from UCLA.

Carlos Contreras will teach Latin American history. He is a doctoral candidate at UCLA.

Lilia Vidal will teach Spanish this year to replace Antonio Crespo, who is pursuing his doctorate. Vidal earned her master's degree from SDSU.

Librarian Jeffrey Prock is a media specialist with two master degrees from the University of Arizona and Arizona State University.

Gopa Patnaik, who earned her master's from SDSU, will join the Counseling Department to work in the Puente Program and in general counseling.

County approves priority list for eastern call boxes

by Joe Naiman

Citizens traveling along isolated East County roads may soon be able to obtain assistance without using a cell phone or Citizens Band Channel 9.

The Board of Supervisors approved a priority list of roads requested for installation of call boxes at its Sept. 15 meeting.

The resolution also includes the authorization of the San Diego Service Authority for Freeway Emergencies (SAFE) to install Adopt-A-Call Box program signs on all call box poles on county-maintained roads.

The SAFE Board of Directors requested that the county submit a list of county-maintained roads appropriate for the installation of up to 140 call boxes.

The initial recommendation is for the first installations to be limited to county roads with average daily traffic counts of 6,000 of higher, but other recommended sites were based on community input or occasional high traffic counts and relative isolation.

Among those roads designated as first priority are Foothill Drive (.9 miles), Jamacha Blvd. from Whitestone Road to Calavo Road (1.5 miles), La Cresta Road (2.9 miles), Lake Jennings Park Road (2.4 miles), the county-maintained portion of Sweetwater Road (2.2 miles), Wildcat Canyon Road (12.5 miles) and Willow Glen Drive (5 miles).

The Valle de Oro Community Planning Group has recommended that Harbinson Canyon Road (8 miles) and Jamul Drive (5 miles), currently designated as second priority, be added to the first priority list, although those roads do not have the average daily traffic of 6,000 vehicles per day.

The group also successfully argued that Steele Canyon Road should be removed from consideration as it is not sufficiently isolated from intense urban activity and development and that locations with many school-age pedestrians would result in prank calls.

The recommendations will be evaluated by SAFE according to a criteria of average daily traffic, distance of the proposed site from the nearest 24-hour public telephone and availability of safe road shoulder and mobility-impaired access.

Other factors include adequacy of radio signal and sunlight for recharging batteries, higher than average levels of traffic incidents or accidents, willingness of the requester to provide financial or other assistance, difficulty of terrain and other relevant secondary need uses such as emergency communication to isolated camping or other recreational use areas.

Earth, Wind & Fire

The quintessential 1970s funk group, Earth, Wind & Fire, is back on the road following the release of its 1997 album, "In the Name of Love." The lineup includes long-time members Phillip Bailey, Verdine White and Ralph Johnson backed by Sheldon Reynolds, Sonny Emory, Morris Pleasure, Mike McKnight, David Romero and David Whitworth, plus a three-piece horn section and two dancers. The tour touches down Oct. 2 at San Diego State University's Cox Arena.

New fruit flies trigger quarantine area

County, state and federal officials intensified efforts Tuesday to address a new infestation of Mexican fruit flies – this time in East County.

County and state workers monitoring a half-mile-square area of the Chollas View neighborhood have documented nine trapped Mexican Fruit Flies and nine larvae since Sept. 16.

The bulk of the discoveries occurred Sunday, when eight flies were trapped. Workers also found six larvae the same day in fruit inspected from sapote trees.

"This is the first time in San Diego County that mated Mexican Fruit Flies and larvae have been found in such numbers," said county of San Diego Agricultural Commissioner Kathleen Thuner. "We must monitor the situation closely and make sure the infestation is contained to the quarantined area."

Workers will treat foliage in a half-mile-square area surrounding the finds with malathion and bait. In addition, properties where larvae are found will be treated with a Diazinon soil drench. Fruit will be stripped prior to treatment.

Thuner said she intends to recommend that the Board of Supervisors adopt a resolution urging the USDA to continue a prevention program along the U.S.-Mexican border.

Under the program, which ended in April, millions of sterile fruit flies were released in Tijuana to reduce the population of fertile fruit flies. Mexican Fruit Flies can only mate once.

Since late July, a dozen Mexican Fruit Flies have been trapped in El Cajon, bringing to 21 the number of the insects documented this year in San Diego County.

The pest poses a threat to the county's $1 billion agriculture industry.

Candidate forum slated for tonight

The East County Chapter of the California Republican Assembly (CRA) will hold an open forum for candidates for the Grossmont Union High School District Governing Board at 7 p.m. today in the La Mesa City Council Chambers, 8130 Allison Ave.

Although CRA is a partisan organization, all candidates in this nonpartisan school board race have been invited. The general public is also invited to attend.

CITY OF LEMON GROVE
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE OF FILING OF A NEGATIVE DECLARATION AND PUBLIC HEARING FOR A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CITY OF LEMON GROVE REDEVELOPMENT PLAN

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT the Lemon Grove City Council and the Community Development Agency of the City of Lemon Grove will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, October 20, 1998, at 6:00 p.m. in the Lemon Grove Community Center, 3146 School Lane, Lemon Grove.

SUBJECT: Amendment to the City of Lemon Grove Redevelopment Plan
LOCATION: City of Lemon Grove Redevelopment Project Area (Exhibit A)
APPLICANT: City of Lemon Grove/Lemon Grove Community Development Agency
3232 Main Street
Lemon Grove, CA 91945

Exhibit A

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: The project involves an amendment to the existing Redevelopment Plan, to extend the time limit to commence eminent domain to December 17, 2010. The Redevelopment Plan itself does not expire until the year 2026. The power of eminent domain which the Community Development Agency of the City of Lemon Grove ("Agency") may exercise (under the provisions of the California Community Redevelopment Law), is set to expire on December 17, 1998, unless otherwise amended. The Agency, with the approval of the City Council, proposes to amend that Plan by extending the provision of eminent domain to December 17, 2010, as allowed by California Community Redevelopment Law. There are no current plans to acquire additional property through the use of eminent domain. However, the Agency has suggested that should either a commercial or residential project be undertaken in the future, the extension of the time limit to exercise the Agency's eminent domain powers could be crucial to the success and completion of those projects, and hence, to the Agency's overall success.

The Agency's Report to the City Council ("Report") on the proposed Amendment will be presented at the joint public hearing. The Report will include a Negative Declaration, the Report and Recommendation of the Planning Commission, a summary of consultations with affected taxing agencies, and other documents required by the California Community Redevelopment Law. Prior to the joint public hearing, these documents will be available for inspection at the Lemon Grove Community Development Department at 3232 Main Street, Lemon Grove, California.

At the joint public hearing, the City Council and the Agency will consider all evidence and testimony for and against the Amendment or the Negative Declaration. All persons having any objections to the proposed Amendment may appear before the Agency and City Council and show cause why the proposed Amendment or the Negative Declaration should not be adopted. At any time not later than the hour set for the hearing, any person(s) may file a written statement with the City Clerk, of their objections to the proposed Amendment. Any person(s) so desiring will be given an opportunity to speak at the hearing. At the public hearing, the City Council and the Agency will proceed to hear and pass upon all written and oral objections to the proposed Amendment, in accordance with the procedures of the California Community Redevelopment Law. The City Council will make written findings in response to written objections filed at the public hearing prior to adoption of the Amendment.

A Draft Negative Declaration of Environmental Impact has been filed by the City of Lemon Grove for this project. The Initial Study which has been prepared for this project is available for public review in the Office of the Community Development Department, 3232 Main Street, Lemon Grove, California 91945.

Written comments regarding the adequacy of this Negative Declaration must be submitted to the Lemon Grove Community Development Department, 3232 Main Street, Lemon Grove, California within twenty-one (21) days of the date of this Notice.

A map depicting the boundaries of the Project Area is included as Exhibit A. A legal description of the Project Area boundaries is available for inspection at the Lemon Grove Community Development Department at 3232 Main Street, Lemon Grove, California. Copies are available at no charge.

Fall means Oktoberfests rolling out

October is here and fall weather might finally arrive. Opportunities to greet the change in season abound in East County, from La Mesa's big blowout weekend to quainter festivities throughout the month in El Cajon.

La Mesa

La Mesa's 25th Annual Oktoberfest kicks off at 5 p.m. on Oct. 2, ending on Oct. 4 at 7 p.m.

Patterned after the world-famous Munich Oktoberfest, La Mesa's version is essentially a giant block party in the downtown village area, with booths set up along La Mesa Boulevard from Acacia Avenue to Fourth Street, and on Allison Avenue from La Mesa Boulevard to Palm Avenue.

The Beer Garden will be located in the municipal parking lot on Allison Avenue between Palm Avenue and Pine Street.

Inside, there will be "oom-pah-pah" bands, costumed folk dancers, and dance floors for adults and children. There will also be grilled bratwurst, pretzels, and soda and beet on tap.

Admission to the Beer Garden is free, and children under 18 must be accompanied by an adult. Beer sales will be halted at 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

Because of very limited parking in downtown La Mesa, the public is encouraged to ride the San Diego Trolley's East Line to the event. Riders should get off at the La Mesa Boulevard station, located at the corner of Spring Street and La Mesa Boulevard, right in the middle of the Oktoberfest activities.

Oktoberfest is sponsored jointly by the East County Regional Chamber of Commerce and the La Mesa Village Merchants' Association. Dates and times are as follows: 5 - 11 p.m. on Oct. 2, 11 a.m. - 11 p.m. Oct. 3, and noon - 7 p.m. on Oct. 4. For more information, call 440-6161.

El Cajon

In El Cajon, the German American Societies of San Diego, Inc. will present its annual Oktoberfest from noon until 10 p.m. on October 3, 4, 10 and 11.

The 16-piece Big Band Battenberg, direct from Germany, will perform this exclusive engagement both weekends.

The event is open to the public, with an admission charge of $1 for adults, age 21 and over.

There will be a traditional beer garden, folk dancing, and authentic German food, such as ox on the spit, bratwurst, potato salad, sauerkraut and red cabbage.

Craft and vendor booths, an airgun shooting gallery, and clown and jump for children, raffle and door prizes, contest and games round out the excitement for everyone. Call 442-6637 for more information.

Mt. Miguel students to tackle Ibsen's dramatic 'Doll House'

For only the second time in 14 years, the Mount Miguel High School Drama Department will present a full-length, classic drama, "A Doll House" by Henrik Ibsen.

The production is scheduled for Oct. 1, 2, and 3.

The play tells the story of Nora Helmer, a Norweigian housewife in 1879. Unbeknownst to her husband, she has taken out a loan, which is against the law for a woman.

The money is used to save the life of her husband, Torvald, who was sick and needed to live in a warmer climate (Italy) to recover. Torvald finds out and is incensed. Nora, realizing that Torvald doesn't really love her, leaves him and their children.

"A Doll's House" was based on a real-life event and was a very controversial play at the time. In fact, many respected actresses refused to play Nora because they didn't want to seem to be the kind of woman who would leave her husband.

(Amazingly, this show also touches on the subjects of suicide, blackmail, an illegitimate child and marrying for money.)

It will be directed by Dennis Henry, a 1992 Mt. Miguel graduate who assists with both drama productions and the speech team.

Drama teacher Myrna Goodwin will serve as the play's producer. The leads will be played by juniors Jason Hoover and Heather Ibey.

Other cast members include seniors Matt Agosta and Aysha Davis, junior Douglas Coon and sophomore Sabrina Barrett. Daniel Floyd, a sophomore, is serving as the stage manager for the play.

Tickets cost $4 and the curtain is at 7 p.m. In order to create a more intimate atmosphere, the wall in the cafeteria will not be opened. Students, friends and family are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance from drama students or arrive early on the night of the show.
